

M.A.D. Expectations

The overall key to M.A.D. is respect and trust. We will treat each other and every student with respect and we expect in return that each student will treat us and every student with respect. Without respect there can be no trust, and trust is essential to theatre. Here are our rules:

1. Everyone is expected to attend on time every day.
2. Everyone is expected to participate with a reasonable degree of enthusiasm in every activity.
3. Expect to be frustrated from time to time. Deal with it in a positive manner.
4. Advance your own ideas while keeping an open mind to others' ideas as well.
5. Name calling and demeaning other people and their work will not be tolerated.
6. Meet deadlines or you will find yourself left out.
7. Don't expect to take part in activities if you are continually late or absent.
8. Cooperate and pay attention. Listen to and follow directions.
9. Practice self-control. We have no time for attention seekers.
10. This is still school. You are here to learn, not to show off. If your behaviour is preventing others from learning, you will be asked to leave.
11. Music with inappropriate lyrics: profanity, racism, sexism, etc is not allowed.
12. You are responsible for your own safety as well as the safety of others. No rough-housing is allowed.
13. You are expected to wear appropriate clothing for warm-up, drama and dance (ie gym strip – no jeans).

I have read the rules above and I agree to abide by them for the entire semester.
