POUR EUX DEUX?

A Soviet propaganda poster. At the center is a woman representing Europe, wearing a white shawl and looking upwards with a pleading expression. She is bound with heavy black chains on her wrists and ankles. Three hands are shown holding large, gleaming swords pointed towards her. The hand on the left holds a sword with the Union Jack (United Kingdom) and the American flag (United States) on its hilt. The hand on the right holds a sword with a red hilt featuring the hammer and sickle (Soviet Union). The background is dark and smoky. The word 'ЕВРОПА' is written across her chest in blue, block letters. At the bottom, the Russian phrase 'БУДЕТ СВОБОДНОЙ!' is written in large, bold, blue letters.
